Our Corporation Senators.

Republican policies are determined, in many of thei most important aspects, by a small coterie in the Senate. The king of this group is now/connected, by the marriage of their children, with John D. TROUBLE FEARED IN DARLINGTON.

At Request of Sheriff Scarborough the Darlington Gaurds Were Ordered Out by Governor Heyward.

Columbia, Sept. 29.—Gov. Hey-ward last night received from the sheriff of Darlington a telegram suggesting that the Darlington Guards had better be ordered out to protect the person of Sam Marks, sent back to Darlington Tuesday to be tried on the charge of having murdered Mr. Hillary Langston.

Gov. Heyward is not disposed to think the people of Darlington are full of vengeance that they would not let the law take its course, especially as the crime was committed but a short time ago and the trial will be a speedy one, in due course of law. But in order to give the prisoner all possible protection, he complied with the re-quest of Sheriff Scarborough.

The night of the negro's arrest it was reported that there might be a lynching, and the Darlington Guards were ordered out, but there was no evidence of a lynching party having been formed. The negro was taken to the penitentiary for safe keeping and was released to deputy sheriffs Tuesday morning when the venerable statesman sank into a state of coma from which all effort to rouse him proved futile.

KEEPING PACE WITH DEMANDS.

This Will Be Truly a Greater State Fair-It Begins on October 25th-Ample Arrangements.

The State Agricultural and Mechanical Society purchased one hundred acres of level land in the southern part of Columbia last spring on which to hold its annual South Carolina State Fairs. This change was made necessary because the old grounds were too small to accommodate the large number of exhibitors and visitors who annually attended the great fairs, and the buildings were no longer suitable for the purposes for which they were built. On the new grounds there is room for everything and for everybody, and they are more conveniently situated to the transportation lines than the old grounds were. The distance is less than a half mile from the new union depot, and the grounds are reached by several fine roads and by the street car lines, and no trouble will be experienced in handling the large crowds that are sure to visit Columbia. Visitors will find everything brand new this year. The buildings are all modern in construction, large, airy, and comfortable, all one story, with numerous exits and wide aisles. One building is devoted entirely to the handiwork of women, and is set apart from the other buildings so that the fair sex may enjoy themselves without interruption. Another building is devoted to the agricultural exhibits and implements, and another to the commercial exhibits. Then, the poultry building occupies a very prominent location and is very large and roomy. The live stock barns are so arranged that all visitors can safely and conveniently pass through all of them and see all the stock at any time, and the management specially requests that visitors avail themselves of this opportunity. The regulation mile race track is located in the southern part of the grounds, and is a beauty. The races may be viewed from the Fair grounds if it be preferred to do so, but a large. comfortable grand stand is located at the finish of the home stretch, where the races can be viewed to much better advantage and with more comfort. The quarter stretch is not separated from the grand stand, as was the case on the old track, but all are combined under one inclosure, thus increasing the social part of the meet.

The Midway or Pike is located near the main entrances, and will be filled with all the modern shows and attractions, with wares from very part of the world, and with people from every part of the world. The athletic grounds are located just opposite the Midway, on the other side of the entrance. Here will be played two excellent games of football during

The railroads have offered very cheap rates on account of the first Greater State Fair, and they will run most convenient schedules from all sections of the State. In view of all the attractions that have been arranged for, there is no risk in saying that the large crowd of last year will be doubled this fall, and that this great gathering will be more easily ac-

PATHETIC CASE IN MANNING.

End Came Quietly After a Period A Little Boy Sentenced to the Reformatory for Stealing When Hungry.

this morning.

The end followed a period of uncontinued since enough material in the case to write several columns, and weave a story which would be heart-melting- and also be an object lesson to the boys now growing up. Here was a young man named Willie Smith of fair intelligence with a bright handsome boy 13 years of ag, e the son of Smith's sister, and whose father was a railroad engineer that met his death in a col-lision; the little fellow's name is Har-ry Palmer, both hailed from Augustaand claimed to be mill operatives, and Columbia, finding the mills crowded, they went to Sumter, that mill was shut down, they then pulled out tramping for Orangeburg. At Rimini the little fellow broke into the depot, as he says in search of food, finding none, he picked up some clothing belonging to the agent; the elder one had gone to sleep on the platform and waking up he missed the boy, called out for him, and was answered from within, Smith go up, went into the waiting room, looked into the window waiting room, looked into the window and finding the boy inside ordered him to come out; when the boy came he had in his hands the bundle of clothes. Smith asked what he was going to do with them, and he said "I am going to trade them off for food." Smith grabbed the bundle and threw it back, in the room, and made the boy come out. This in effect is the story of these two tramps, and their story im-pressed us and many others as being true, while there are others who believe the elder has made a scape-goat of the boy and the story was a piece of shrewdness to clear Smith and secure a light sentence for little Palmer who pleaded guilty. The jury most have been impressed with Smith's demeanor as they found him 'not guilty.' Solicitor Wilson, believing the boy a victim of the man, appealed to the Judge to make his sentence as light as possible. The Judge in passing sentence, told the little fellow that he would send him to the State Reformatory and if he behaved himself he would recommend a commutation of the sentence from one year to a shorter time. The little fellow received his sentence with very little emotion, not that he did not realize its meaning, for he is remarkably intelligent for his years. After sentence was pro-nounced upon little Palmer, Smith broke down and wept bitterly.—ManningiTimes.
